New York Central insisted on accompanying the Governor about the city, much against the Governor's will. His good offices were at no time needed. THE SUN reporter interviewed a policeman about the promised disorders. The policeman did not know that he was talking to a reporter. "Trouble to-night?" he asked. "No, not on your life, nit. Say, there was talk about it, but it don't go. McGuire he passed the word to the Chief and the Chief sent it down the line to the coppers. McGuire says there's been too much rough house out through the State. It's beginning to look as though there was something official about it. And McGuire, he says he don't want anything doing in Syracuse that looks as though it was official. So if any man raises his hand to-night to make suble he gets his arm broke, that's all. It's going to be like a Sunday school to-night."

It was It was incidentally proved that when the Democrats desire to see to it that Gov. Roosevelt's meetings shall not be interrupted the meetings are not interrupted. As a contrast in the way the two parties are doing things up in this part of the State it is well to compare the way Gov. Roosevelt and Senator Laughlin were treated in Auburn by the hoodlums there this afternoon with the way Senator Grady and his Democratic colleagues were treated there to-night. The Republicans were persistently interrupted by one or two individuals. The town is strongly Republican. But when the Democrats spoke to-night not a voice was raised against them.

Gov. Roosevelt's speech in the public square to-night after he reviewed the parade was very brief. He thanked the police and the municipal authorities for having maintained such good order during the night and asked the great multitude to be as easy as possible on the women and children who were jammed up against the stand beneath him. It really seemed at times stand beneath him. It really seemed at times during the night as though some one would be crushed to death. Screams and groams came out of the mass of people every time the crowd shifted. There were many thousands of people in the gathering. The Social Labor party tried to steal some Republican thunder by starting meetings on the outskirts of the mass meeting, but the effort was not highly appreciated.

The Governor spoke also at Wieting's Opera House. He said governor things about the Ice Trust. He said that he coundn't say with regard to the Ice Trust whether it was or was not a violation of the law. Not until the evidence was put before him could he decide that. And when the evidence was before him, he would sit in judgment on it in his judictal capacity and his decision would be on the merits of the case under the law. He didn't care a snap of his fingers, he said, how the case was decided so long as the decision was in accordance with the facts and the law.

There was a rising murmur of indignation while the Governor was speaking and there were loud shouts of "Put him out!" "Polica." "Make him shut up!" The Governor beld up his hand.

"He will be quiet enough after I get through with him," he said with a grin. "Now, when there was wrong-doing charged against these men it was for things done before I came into office. Mind, I couldn't remove these mon because one of their terms had expired, and in the place of the other I had already appointed a successor. The only thing that could be done was to see whether any action against them lay under the law. To do that I had to take two of the best counsels is could get to see if they could find anything to warrant prosecution. I took two Democrate, one of them was Mr. Cleveland's District Attorney for New York city, the other was Mr. Austin Fox, with whom I differed on almost every political question. I took these two men because while I knew that they would do their duty absolutely in any event, their political animus was against the accused officials. They went through the whole canal question and reported that prosecution was useless, and their report should be familiar now to any man intelligent enough to ask questions about it."

KRUGER BEFORE THE WAR.

His Replies to Confidential Suggestions From Germany and the Netherlands to Avoid War.

Special Cable Despatch to THE SUN. THE HAQUE, Oct. 25 .- The Government has ssued the text of three confidential despatches sent to President Krüger in 1899 by Dr. De Beaufort, the Netherlands' Minister of Foreign Affairs, and the replies thereto. On May 18, Dr. De Beaufort, foreseeing the danger of war, counselled President Krüger in the true interests of the South African Republic, to be as conclliatory and as moderate as possible adding that the German Government shared the opinion that this was advisable. QUEER WORK OF POLICEMEN

CHARGES OF INTIMIDATION MADE IN THE STH DISTRICT.

Reputable Women Threatened and Hustled to the Pelice Court, Apparently Under Pre-text of Suspected Colonization-No Charges Are Made and They're Allowed to Go. Two French women, one the wife of a head walter in the Hotel Martin and the other the wife of a porter in a wholesale wine house, who eke out their husbands' income by renting lodgings at 142 and 144 Macdougal street t French, Belgian and Swiss cooks, have been half frightened to death recently by the calls and repeated threats of Mercer street detectives. It is to be inferred that the detectives worried the women, whose husbands are Republicans because their lodgers have registered from the houses. But the police are careful enough to make no charge against anybody. Yesterday afternoon, with no more authority than a police court sur by Detectives Sherwood and Keily, Mrs. Leon Lusi of 144 Macdongal street was acing Washington Square with her two children one of whom is only six weeks old. One of the detectives, with whom was a policeman in uniform, took hold of Mrs. Lusi's arm. "You must come to court with us," he said to her, "Come back to your rooms and leave the baby and the other child."

The woman is unable to speak English, but she understood that she was being taken in custody. The same detectives had called at her house on Saturday and on Wednesday On each of those occasions her little girl had in terpreted for her. The child interpreted her story for a SUN reporter last night. "I was trembling all over," the woman said

Golf Capes . . . An Unusual Exploit Finest Sorts for the Least They Ever Cost.

Last Monday's sale of Golf Capes was the greatest in Golf Cape history-if there had been, 5,000 instead of 200 you would have taken them all before night. Now comes a sale that is even greater, because the Capes are finer and prices, proportionately, quite as low. They come from the same importer, are the balance of our purchase and his very finest stock. The fact that they did not arrive until yesterday is responsible for this second offering. The Rugs were made by three celebrated Scotch and English firms—H. G. Porter & Co., F. H. Galloway & Co. and Clarkson, Firth & Co. The materials are the finest of Scotch and English rugs all wool fabrics, rich and fine and as soft to the touch as a kitten's ear. The face of each rug is plain, in destrable and handsome colorings, and the reverse sides are the most beautiful plaid color combinations that ever Scottish chieftain wore, each of them exclusive in this gathering, none to be duplicated elsewhere. All of the Capes are perfectly finished and the variety of styles is quite the widest and best to be found in this vicinage.

There are only 275—we wish there were five times as many. It would mean fewer disappointments. Three lots, this way:

Golf Capes, worth $15.00, for $9.75 Golf Capes, worth $20.00, for $11.50 Golf Capes, worth $25.00, for $14.50

Commodore L. Cass Ledyard at the meeting of the New York Yacht Club last night said that a new yacht would be built to defend the America's Cup, but he was not at liberty to give the names of the yachtsmen who would form the syndicate. His announcement was received with cheers from the members, and those who have been worried about the plans for the defence of the Cup were well pleased. There was considerable talk among the members after the meeting, and from what could be gathered the names mentioned in The Stw of yesterday are correct so far as they go, but the syndicate will be composed of about twelve the syndicate will be composed of about twelve men.

The meeting was a large one and naturally all were anxious for Cup news. Commodore Ledy ard in making his announcement said:

"Gentlemen, it is with the utmost pleasure that I am able to assure you to-night that you need have no measiness as to whether a yacht will be built to defend the America's Cup. Not only will a yacht be built, but I can say with like confidence that no effort of any sort, no skill, red devotion will be spared to make the defence a successful one. It would be a pleasure to me if I were at liberty to mention names, but I am not I can only ask you to rest on the assurance which I have given you."

The chairman of the committee on the new dubnouse read a latter from the architect which said that the house built on West Forty-fourth street would be turned over to the club on Dec. I. It will be formally opened on Dec. 15. The value of the gifts made by club members for the building amounts to $113,000.

The following were elected as the Nominating Committee to select officers and members of standing for next year:

Boston, Oct. 25.—There is considerable talk locally about a match being arranged between Harry Vardon and Bernard Nichols, owing to the defeat of the Englishman at Braeburn several weeks ago. When Vardon was asked on Tuesday night if he would be willing to meet Nichols he replied that whenever his manager, A. S. Cox, arranged a match he would be very glad to play Nichols, but would insist on playing over a long course. Vardon said he was willing to back himself to the extent of $1,000 against Nichols and added that he would back Alex Findlay against the latter.
